

Satellite radio provides the kind of variety that I cannot find on regular radio. It also provides targetted detailed traffic and weather reports that I listen to frequently on my drive to and from work. To limit what content satellite radio can provide is senseless. I pay for that content; I have chosen to support satellite radio with my hard earned dollars because of what it offers and I don't feel it's justifiable for that content to be altered or censored. Let the satellite radio providers play what they want, how and when they want. They should not be penalized for innovation.
